TO COLLEGE MEN

Governor Roosevelt's Address to Cornell Class.

Value of Education—A Proposition Set Out—Graduates and Politicians. The True Americans.

ITHACA, N. Y., June 20.—Governor Roosevelt today attended the class-day exercises of the class of '99 in Cornell Armory. The students received him with cheers. In his address to the graduates the Governor referred to statements recently made by several men who had amassed great fortunes, to the effect that collegiate education is useless in the world of today. He attacked their position vehemently, and said: "Our country could better afford to lose all the men who have amassed millions than to lose one-half of its college-bred men. We can get along without men of enormous wealth, but not without men of brains."

Governor Roosevelt then discussed the desirability of college-bred men making themselves active in the political world. He criticised the position that because politics are corrupt good men should shun them, holding that the very fact that dishonesty and corruption exist should be an incentive to good men actively to participate and remove the evils.

Speaking directly to the graduating class, the Governor said they were no better than the masses who had not had their advantages except in so far as they utilized their great advantages and proved themselves so. Collegiate education did not make them too cultured and refined for the active work of life; if it did, it would be a curse rather than a blessing.

"Above all," said the Governor, "do not become of the class of so-called highly educated and cultured, who sneer at American institutions and American customs. If you recognize a fault come forward and expose it and strive to remedy it. Do not become of the class who lose faith in the ability of Americans to govern either themselves or their islands."

A NEW ARTIST.

Portrait of Chas. M. Cooke By Banko, the Japanese.

A portrait in oil of Charles M. Cooke, president of the Bank of Hawaii, and one of the best known of Hawaii's citizens, may be seen at the studio of J. J. Williams, the pioneer photographer, located on Fort street. The portrait has been viewed by a number of the intimate friends of Mr. Cooke, and by several persons interested in art. It is a faithful likeness and of most artistic execution and finish. It shows good drawing, good painting and good coloring. By some it is pronounced better than any portrait ever done here. It is certainly far and away superior to most of the work of the class that has been put forth here by visiting artists from time to time. The author is the Japanese, Banko, a new arrival, who has located here permanently. He is of the Orient by birth only. Banko was educated in the United States. Like Benjamin West, he was an artist from childhood. For place of training he selected the Pacific Coast, and was a student of the best schools and foremost masters for seven years. He holds the coveted gold medal award of the San Francisco school, which gives him equal rank with the many distinguished artists who have homes on the Pacific Coast. Banko is modest, an intelligent gentleman, whose artistic temperament and true love for culture are noticeable at once. All who meet him will be impressed with him and will feel that he should be encouraged to remain in Honolulu as a member of the art circle so small, but so genuinely valuable. He has produced his first portrait under great difficulty. The face of the subject selected is one familiar to all in Honolulu, and it is reflected most faithfully from the canvas. What the artists call technique is shown in the expression, and both the boldness and the blending of the chief colors are remarkable for the skill exhibited. The picture should be seen by all who care for pictures.
